participate.

She said business is off to a good start, and in 1994 she will air television commercials for the first time.

Realtor John Ritten of Coast Delta Realty said housing start numbers in Diamondhead were up considerably in 1993 and he expects a continual rise in 1994.

Said Ritten, "1993 was an excellent year."

He said many business in Diamondhead saw an excellent year, which he called "a recovery from years past," and have momentum going into 1994.

Waveland business owner Barbara Kerner, who opened Creative Jewelry in October of 1993, said she is looking into expanding services and projects in 1994.

"We had a good reception...I think we'll do real well in 1994," Kerner said.

The new business owner said she had wanted to open a business here for a while. The advent of casinos and personal circumstances made the time right.

She said the business got off to a good start with the Christmas rush and gave her a better insight as to what people want. She said the casinos have helped her business, citing that people now have money to buy extra goods.

On the other hand, Peggy Ladner, 15-year owner of Kiln Supermarket, which has been owned by her family for 27 years, said of business in 1993, "It was fair, but it wasn't great."

Ladner said her business has been worse since the advent of casinos, with the 1993 summer business cut in half. Her reasoning is that people are spending their extra money at the casinos.

She said she has seen business get better gradually and she hopes it continues in 1994. She said it will depend more on President Bill Clinton and taxes rather than casinos.

"The politicians should let the people know what's going on," Ladner said. "And spend more of casino revenues on detering crime. It's only going to get worse."

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil said overall he has not seen an increase in crime in Bay St. Louis. However, he said he has seen a slight increase in auto thefts and robbery of vehicles.

"As far as actual crimes go, there were no specific increases," McNeil said.

He said there was an increase calls for service, which he attributes to the increase of people in the area, not gaming specifically.

McNeil said there was one murder in 1993, which was drug related. He added that rape incidents in the past few months, which are still under investigation, "are in no way attributed to gaming."

"Whenever you have the amount of people coming through here like we do, you are going to have an increase in calls."

McNeil said in 1994 the department will continue to provide "the same quick, courteous service," as it has in the past. He said some 25 officers have been added to help the community.

"We don't anticipate anything we can't handle," McNeil said. "We're not going to let our community go unprotected."

Overall, many community leaders saw 1993 as a good year, and expect much of the same in 1994. When asked what their hopes and wishes were for 1994, the responses varied.

WISH LIST

Howard Lizana, Hancock County District 4 Supervisor, said he wished to have county roads blacktopped, for the success and completion of the sand beach in the county, to have all the sewerage needed in place and most importantly have both a covered horse show arena and a soccer facility in the county.

Bay St. Louis City Councilman Tad Black wishes for completion of city sewerage projects and the two new baseball fields for T-ball and minor league, to have a comprehensive zoning plan intact in 1994, and "to keep Bay St. Louis a place apart."

To extend sewerage services to all Waveland residents, to repair roads in Waveland, including Waveland Ave. at Highway 90, to repair and renovate the Civic Center in Waveland for residents' use, "and in general to do a better job than we are doing now," wished Waveland Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman.

"It's been a good year and an exceptionally busy year for me," said State Senator Bill Johnson. "We've accomplished a lot..."

For 1994, Johnson said he encourages everyone to become more involved in government. One legislative highlight Johnson is looking forward to in 1994 is initiative, which could give constituents rights to vote on more issues.

"For all of our people—good health, happiness and prosperity...For the city, to have the continued progress that we've seen over the past several years," said Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The holiday season is the time many of us put on that little extra weight.

The reasons for the extra weight include parties, big meals, sweets, extra snacks, desserts, etc.

Those who exercise also have a tendency to forget about it during the holiday season.

I try to continue my walking during the holiday season, so I won't have so much weight to lose.

Because I really enjoy good eating like most folks, weight control is a constant battle for me.

One thing I am sure of is the fact that I am not the only one who has to worry about weight control.

I know very few folks like one of my cousins. We always say Donald has hollow legs. He can eat just about everyone 'under the table,' as the saying goes, and never gains weight. Even since he retired, he still eats a lot.

Motorists can expect a roadblock or two within a few days, as all three local law enforcement agencies will place emphasis on proper tags on vehicles.

At the last Bay St. Louis City Council meeting, Mayor Eddie Favre reported he has received a complaint about people working and residing in the area with out-of-state tags on their vehicles.

The sheriff and both police chiefs indicate they will place special emphasis on checking proper drivers licenses, tags, brake stickers, etc. beginning next month.

Since next month is only a few days away, I urge all motorists to make sure to have licenses and vehicles in proper order.

If you are issued a citation and are found guilty, the cost can really escalate.

When a person becomes a resident, he or she is required to purchase a license plate within 30 days and a Mississippi drivers license within 60 days.

By the way, those state safety inspection stickers can expire on you if you are not careful.

Fireworks stands appear to be on every corner of Highway 90 throughout the area.

Apparently there will be many folks shooting fireworks to welcome the New Year.

Far too many are injured each year while using fireworks.

I would like to urge anyone who uses fireworks to please use extreme caution.

May hope and peace
be with you throughout the new year.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Taxpayer shouldn't pay for congressional elections

On Nov. 22, the U.S. House of Representatives approved what has been hailed by many in Washington as a sweeping overhaul of the congressional campaign finance system. As a long-time backer of campaign finance reform, this bill is no overhaul. It is simply "window dressing."

In a desperate attempt to appease America's push for passage of some type of campaign reform before the end of the year, Congress simply selected, as the Washington Post best described it, "the best of the lemons on the lot."

My greatest fear is that this bill will place much of the burden for funding congressional elections on the backs of the American taxpayer. Yes, that's right. A broad cross section of the American public would finance a major portion of the legislation. In basic terms, the bill would provide partial public funding to U.S. Representatives for their campaign races. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that House candidate benefits could total over $400 million each election cycle.

In the wake of our nation's ever increasing budget deficit, I don't believe this is any time for Congress to be asking the American taxpayer to foot the bill for congressional elections.

What I do support is a $1,000 limit on Political Action Committee contributions. I would like to see that one-half of a candidate's funds were raised within the district. No more than 50 percent of a candidate's contributions should come from individual contributors who give more than $200. And Political Action Committee contributions should be limited to 50 percent of all contributions received by a candidate.

In retrospect, this most recent campaign finance reform bill is a farce. Even if signed into law, the bill would not become effective until funding for candidate benefits was enacted by Congress. That could take years. And taxpayers, as I have said before, would have to foot much of the bill.

To fund the program, supporters have gone as far as to devise a scheme to allow taxpayers to voluntarily contribute $10 for House campaigns.

I do remain committed to campaign reform. However, even though this bill may be labeled "Campaign Reform," it's a lemon. And I cannot in good conscience support legislation that would require Americans to finance congressional campaigns.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi
Economic Council

Mission: Efficiency

State Representative Tyrone Ellis has found a mission for the 1994 session of the Mississippi Legislature: making state and local Mississippi government more efficient.

When asked by the Mississippi Economic Council about his package of prefiled legislation, the Starkville businessman said his objective is to remove barriers he sees blocking improved government services.

As chairman of the House Public Utilities Committee, and with more than 13 years service as a legislator, Representative Ellis told the MEC that it is time Mississippi began making substantive changes in the way government operates.

Among his proposals:

— Establish a one-chamber legislature

— Reduce the number of justice court judges to one per county

— Reduce the number of county supervisors to three per county.

— Replace the three-member elected Public Service Commission with a single elected commissioner.

— Replace the three-member elected Transportation Commission with a single elected commissioner.

Representative Ellis says that he may try to amend his own legislation to allow the Governor to appoint the transportation commissioner, a concept endorsed by MEC as a way to strengthen the executive branch of state government.

With the 1994 Legislature expected to focus on how to deal with a record surplus in the state's General Fund, the proposals by Representative Ellis could enhance debate on bringing more efficient government to Mississippi.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Right of free speech
must be protected

Dear Editor,

I am writing in reply to a letter in last Thursday's Sea Coast Echo. I can't imagine anyone wishing to run off a volunteer, or have someone lose their job for voicing their opinion.

I am a volunteer and a member of an all-volunteer organization. I am eligible because my father, brother and husband fought to give me that privilege.

They also gave me a guaranteed right to speak and express my opinion. I don't know who you are talking about, and I really don't care. However, I do care about their freedom of speech.

Apparently you are not a volunteer or you would know that they are special people and hard to replace. They take care of such things as St. Vincent de Paul, The Food Pantry, needy veterans, hospitalized veterans, Hancock Medical Center Hospital Auxiliary, and one volunteer is directly responsible for the beautiful flags that fly freely over Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis.

If you don't believe in free speech, I suggest you try another form of government in another country, maybe communism would suit you better.

I don't write letters often, only when I'm mad. So if you think I'm mad, you're right, I am. But, I also realize that you, too, have the right of free speech. Guard your right well, and give others a little respect.

Wishes for the
New Year are many

Dear Editor,

It's that time of year everyone makes New Year resolutions. For ever so many years we've all prayed for "Peace on Earth" — but it never came to pass.

So, this year perhaps we should just pray that America wakes up from its drug induced materialistic dream; returns to family values and good morals; the entertainment industry cleans up its offerings; that

"egg-head" educators are banned from teaching and/or writing text books; the politicians who vote for their own rewards rather than the good of America are voted out; etc.

That's a tall order for anyone to fill, but if we all work together it will come to pass. Then we'll really enjoy a

Keep religious training in churches, homes

Dear Editor:

Our American system of government is built on two basic, counter-balancing principles: 1) that the majority of the people, through democratically elected representatives, governs the country, and 2) that the power of even a democratic majority must be limited to ensure individual rights.

It is also important to distinguish between the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. The Constitution authorizes the government to act. The Bill of Rights limits that authority.

What rights are guaranteed in the Bill of Rights? First Amendment Rights: Freedom of speech, association, assembly, freedom of the press, freedom of, and from religion, including the strict separation of church and state.

Equal protection under the law: Regardless of race, sex, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, age, physical handicap, etc. Due process of law when facing criminal charges. The right to privacy.

It must be remembered that it was a majority that crucified Christ. Majorities are not always right. The Bill of Rights guarantees the right of any person to be different.

It is the principal duty of parents and churches to instill morality, religious ideals and beliefs in our children. It is the principal duty of our public schools to give them a good general education, not a religious one.

Public schools are state run and publicly funded. We must remember that not all students are Christians and cannot be forced to say and hear Christian prayers.

The government is specifically prohibited from instilling religion in public schools by the First Amendment and Supreme Court decisions.

Are we willing to teach our children that it is all right to disobey certain laws that we deem wrong, and to only obey the laws we want to obey? What sort of society would we have if we each chose to disobey laws we did not like or felt were wrong? Each of us has a law or two that we feel is stupid or wrong. I have a few of my own. Does that give us the right to disobey them? I think not!

Christianity, being the majority religion in the U.S., is not the only religion that is not allowed to say prayer in public schools. No religion is allowed to. No one is being discriminated against. The law pertains to all individuals equally, and no one has favor.

How much school time would be lost each day if Christians said their prayers, Muslims said theirs, Jews said theirs, Hindus and Buddhists said theirs, agnostics said theirs, and atheists went out of the room because they had no prayer to say and didn't want to hear any, which is their right?

It would create havoc and great time loss. Would you want forced Islamic or Buddhist prayer for your children?

It would also tend to segregate and polarize the different religious groups of children, children whose religious differences once did not even cross their minds, children who had previously been able to attend a class as a friendly coherent group.

I have never had a problem praying silently anywhere, anytime I want. Am I to believe that the only way to pray is aloud, in a group, at pre-arranged time at school? Have I been doing it wrong all along?

Our public schools are for reading, writing, arithmetic, science, and hopefully, environmental, health and overpopulation education, since churches are sadly shirking their responsibility in these areas. Do religious training at home and in churches where it should be done.

Naturally,
Donald C. Holt

Thoughts for meditation:
Sometimes, Father, frigid winter blankets my spirit. Gray days become a harsh and heavy burden. And then I remember how You promised Noah winter and summer, seed time and harvest, day and night, cold and heat as long as the earth shall live. Help me understand; the barren and difficult times are not a curse, but part of a blessing — Your wonderful, ever-changing gift: life.

Watch for good times to retreat into yourself. Frequently meditate on how good God is to you.

—T. Kempis
The hours fly by and I am always in a rush . . . so many duties and relationships to tend to, Lord. Help me find the time to meditate on the most important relationship of all — my relationship with You. Amen.

Dear Friends, you who are letting miserable misunderstandings run on from year to year, meaning to clear up some day . . . You who are passing men sullenly upon the street, not speaking out of some silly spite, and yet knowing that it would fill you with remorse if you heard that one of these men were dead tomorrow morning; you who are . . . letting your friend's heart ache for a word of appreciation or sympathy, which you mean to give some day — if you could know . . . that "the time is short," how it would break the spell! How you would go instantly and do the thing which you might never have another chance to do.

The Time is Short
Phillip Brooks
No one knows what next year will bring, but one thing is sure, He will be with us and He is enough for every difficulty that may arise.

—Amy Carmichael
Do not be afraid or terrified, for the Lord your God goes with you: He will never leave you nor forsake you.

Lord, as the old year closes, help me take time to examine the relationships in my life. Are they in good repair? Are there debts of any kind that need attention? Give me the courage to admit my errors and shortcomings and the character and Your Grace to correct them. I give You control of this New Year and pray that I may grow more like You with each passing day. Amen.

With the help of Louis' Cab Service, resolve to start the new year off right—don't drink and drive.

For the second year in a row, the Waveland cab company will offer free rides home to anyone who has had a bit too much holiday cheer this New Year's Eve.

Owners Louis and Mertie Hearty said the free service will be available from 6 p.m. until on New Year's Eve.

Anyone needing transportation should contact Louis' Cab Service at 467-1260, the Sheriff's Department or Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Department.

for the Atmore abandonment had shown little interest in their own request, by not appearing at the hearing.

Aside from Elliott's objections, two women at the hearing expressed concern about the increase in casino activity in Hancock County.

"Dear God, please don't tear our community apart with all those boats coming in," said one.

In other action, the board opened bids for a number of goods and services, ranging from tires and gasoline to banking and pest control. Bids for most of the items were taken under advisement to allow county officials to study them.

Three banks' bids for services were accepted, including Sunburst, Hancock and Peoples banks. A bid for legal advertisements from the Sea Coast Echo was accepted, and the board accepted the lone bid it received for liquid propane gas, from Blossman Gas. The board also accepted the only bid it received for exterminator services, from Pest Control Services.

In another matter, the board heard details of a dental insurance policy offered to public employees through Mississippi Risk Management, Inc.

As it stands, 40 to 50 of the county's 180 fulltime employees are enrolled in a similar plan through Guardian Dental Insurance, the board was told. The proposed plan's costs and benefits are similar, but it offers optional coverage for orthodontic work.

Supervisors promised to study the proposed plan as a possible offering to county employees.

Earlier in the meeting, supervisors went into a 30-minute executive session to discuss "personnel" matters. They did not announce whether they had taken any action during the closed meeting.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

AFTER THE HOLIDAYS

When the wrappings and ribbons are in the trash, the manger scene is back in the attic, the friends and family have said good-bye, and the house feels empty and so do you — there is One who waits to fill your heart and renew your hope.

Many things have happened as the old year is winding down, and lots of folks in Diamondhead are gearing up for a great new year ahead.

The Diamondhead Boaters treated all who watched to a wonderful Christmas Parade of Lights on Saturday, Dec. 18.

Some of the beautifully lighted boats coming up the main channel were the Hancock Bank's "Doris M," Curtis Stout's sailboat with lighted star atop, and last the boat with Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus with treats to give out at the Ship's Store.

All the boaters will now begin planning their fabulous Mardi Gras ball to be held Saturday, Feb. 5 at the Broadwater Tower in Biloxi.

The Boaters Krewe of Kamehameha proudly presents King Ted Szlag and his queen-elect, Mrs. Gloria (Frank) Gasper.

MORE ROYALTY

Just into the new year the Krewe of Diamondhead will hold its Mardi Gras ball on Saturday, Jan. 29 at the country club.

Reigning over this festive group will be Mr. and Mrs. William Bahner. The royal monarchs received their crowns at the coronation ball held at the Day's Inn Dec. 4.

Mrs. Bahner, "Billie" to all of her friends, was stunning in her emerald-green velvet gown trimmed in gold sequins. And if you thought this lovely gown couldn't be better, a sneak preview of Billie's gown for the ball brought ohs and ahs!

Bob Mackie has nothing on our own Linda Ladner, who designed and made both of these exclusive creations. She's also doing many of the other ladies' of the court. As always this occasion promises to be a night to remember.

GARDEN CLUB

The Diamondhead Garden Club finished out the year with a lovely Christmas luncheon on Wednesday, Dec. 15 at the community center. Christmas cheer and finery were everywhere, and the hostesses for this event, Ms. Gerri Garberg, Virginia Ludwig, Bernie Iverson and Rose Espinosa should be applauded for an excellent job. Gerri's talents were well displayed on every table with Christmas greenery and lighted candles. Handmade corsages, another great member participation idea from new president Cathy McFaul, were judged.

First place went to Johnnie Boatwright, second to Carol Guillmino and third to Bernie Iverson.

First place winner in the outdoor Christmas decoration contest in Diamondhead was Ms. Henry (Virginia) Langen, 8454 Kinio Court, who was on hand to receive her prize.

The new year starts off with a board of directors meeting at the community center at 2 p.m. Jan. 12. Jan. 19 is the first meeting of the new year.

"Antique Roses" from Maureen Detweiler, founding member of the New Orleans old Garden Rose Society will be the topic of the day. Don't forget the plant exchange.

HELP YOUR

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Those nice gentlemen from the Diamondhead Square and Compass Club would like to see other organizations follow their lead in providing our fire department with those radio pagers they need. Please call Chief Westbrook for more information.

AARP-O-GRAM

Reminds us that their first meeting in the new year is on Tuesday, Jan. 4, 3 p.m. at the community center.

Guest speaker will be Jim English of Diamondhead, TV Cable Inc. His topic will be "Cable TV — A New Era."

1994 dues of $3 per person are due at the meeting or may be mailed to Frank Jaumont, 7549 Mahalo Hui Drive. Don't forget items for the food pantry.

WOMEN'S CLUB

The first meeting of the year for these busy ladies will be Wednesday, Jan. 5, 10 a.m. at the community center. This new organization has more than proven that it can meet the challenges ahead.

More than $4,000 was raised at the "Memory Walk" to benefit the Mississippi Alzheimer's Foundation.

A needed support group was formed and meets at the community center the third Monday of every month.

The children's Christmas party on Dec. 12 was a success. I'm sure president Terri Downey has many plans for members to be involved in 1994. New members are welcome.

DIAMONDHEAD LIONS

The Lions Club meetings are held on the first and third Tuesday of the month at 7 p.m. at the community center.

President Howard Peters and wife Betty hosted the Christmas dinner at their home Dec. 21.

Ken Pullen announces that the recent fund-raiser was a success for "Sight — First."

Drop boxes for eyeglasses in Diamondhead are L L Ltd. and Diamondhead Supermarket.

NEW FACES, NEW PLACES

Diamondhead community and the Diamondhead Rotary Club, which meets every Thursday at noon at the Day's Inn, welcome new residents and new members Dr. Thomas M. Lehman, MD FACE who has established a Whole Family Healthcare Clinic at 4410 W. Aloha Drive, Dr. Mark A. McFarland, DMD, practices family dentistry at 4349 Gex Road, and recently retired Dr. James Bills from his practice in Gary Ind.

Our new places are a video arcade in the Plaza Shopping Center and the Hancock Medical Center between Woodland Village Nursing Home and St. Thomas Episcopal Church, soon to open. Watch us grow!

CASINO MAGIC

Those "wild and crazy" newcomers are starting the year off with "a challenge to Lady Luck." On Monday, Jan. 10, the bus leaves Diamondhead Supermarket parking lot at 10:30 a.m., cash bar at 11:30 and lunch at Torgy's at noon. Cost of $10 includes bus and lunch.

Husbands and guests are welcome, but reservations and payment must be received by Evelyn Kibler, 6525 Koulia Drive no later than Jan. 5. Hopefully everyone will have good luck and return to Diamondhead around 3 p.m.

HAPPY FEET

Ruth and Charlie Olivier invite new members to join them Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the community center and again on Wednesday at 7 p.m. for some great exercise, lots of fun, and to learn some great dance steps with the Diamondhead Dancers. Try it, you'll like it!

SENIORS

The bus picks up at the Dairy Queen every Friday at 8:30 a.m., then heads to the Senior Citizens Center in Bay St. Louis for lots of activities, a nice hot lunch and shopping on the way home, arriving back at the Dairy Queen about 1:15 p.m. Please call 255-1317 if you need a ride to and from Dairy Queen.

LITTER IS UNLAWFUL

Pass the peas, please

Variations on traditional New Year's fare

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Black-eyed peas and cabbage... a time-honored tradition on New Year's Day to ensure good luck and wealth in the coming year.

For those who wish to keep the custom, but just don't care for the standard black-eyed peas, three wonderful recipes have been selected from Nathalie Dupree's Southern Memories—Memories and Reminiscences, Copyright 1993 by Nathalie Dupree, Clarkson Potter/Publishers, $30.

The book, which features beautiful color photographs by Tom Eckerle, focuses on Southern-style eating. Dupree, one of the South's leading cooking authorities for well over a decade, is the host of three cooking series airing on PBS stations and The Learning Channel.

Entertaining tips and practical hints are offered throughout the book as well.

For guaranteed good luck, or to offer a delicious alternative to the traditional, try:

MISSISSIPPI CAVIAR

Serves 10 to 12

This wonderful make-ahead dip is made from the South's caviar — black-eyed peas.

It can be refrigerated for 4 to 5 days and can easily be doubled for large parties. Hot peppers spice up many Southern dishes. Jalapeno peppers are used extensively in Texas. Tabasco peppers are hotter. But most Southern peppers are finger and cowhorn peppers.

3 16-ounce cans black-eyed peas, drained
1/2 cup finely chopped green bell pepper
1/2 cup finely chopped red bell pepper
3/4 cup finely chopped hot peppers
3/4 cup finely chopped onion
3/4 cup drained and finely chopped pimiento
1 garlic clove, chopped
1/3 cup red wine vinegar
2/3 cup olive oil
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
Salt
Tabasco sauce
Tortilla chips

In a large mixing bowl, combine the peas, bell peppers, hot peppers, onion, pimiento and garlic. In a separate bowl, whisk together the vinegar, oil and mustard and pour over the bean mixture; mix well. Season to taste with salt and Tabasco. With a wooden spoon or potato masher, mash the bean mixture slightly.

Refrigerate until ready to serve. Drain the caviar well and serve with tortilla chips.

BLACK-EYED PEA AND CORN SALAD

Serves 8 to 10

I'm always grateful for new ways to use up garden vegetables. With a snappy hot dressing, red onion, and bell peppers combined with cowpeas (black-eyed), a touch of the familiar gets a new upbeat note. And it's so pretty! This salad requires advance preparation.

1 pound dried black-eyed peas, washed and picked over
1 2-inch piece fatback, salt pork, or bacon
2 1/4 cups corn kernels, cut from 5 ears
1/4 pound bacon
1 large red onion, cut into 1/4-inch dice
3 red bell peppers, roasted, peeled, seeded and cut into 1/4-inch dice
5 scallions or green onions, white and green parts, cut into 1/4-inch slices
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper

HOT DRESSING

1 cup apple cider vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1 garlic clove, finely chopped
2 to 3 tablespoons chopped fresh basil
2 to 3 tablespoons chopped fresh thyme
2 to 3 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1 cup chicken stock

Cover the peas with water and soak 7 to 8 hours or overnight. Drain. Place the peas and fatback in a 5-quart stockpot with water to cover and bring to the boil. Cover, reduce the heat, and simmer for 25 minutes, until the peas are firm but not mealy. Drain.

In a medium saucepan, combine the corn with 1/4 cup boiling water. Return to the boil, then reduce the heat and cook over medium heat until the kernels are crisp-tender, about 6 to 8 minutes; drain.

In a skillet, cook the bacon until very crisp. Transfer to paper towels with a slotted spoon, reserving the fat in the skillet. When cool, crumble the bacon.

Combine the drained corn and peas in a large mixing bowl. Add the red onion, roasted peppers, scallions, salt and pepper to taste and the crumbled bacon.

To make the hot dressing, add the vinegar, sugar and mustard to the bacon drippings in the frying pan and bring to the boil over high heat. Reduce by half, about 3 to 4 minutes, then add the garlic, basil, thyme and parsley.

Cook a minute or two, until the garlic is soft, then add the chicken stock. Return to the boil once more and cook until reduced by half, 5 to 7 minutes. Pour the hot dressing over the pea-corn mixture and toss. Refrigerate overnight. Serve cold or at room temperature.

(NOTE: To quick-soak peas, cover with 3 times the quantity of water and bring to the boil. Cover. Set aside for 1 hour. Drain.)

BLACK-EYES PEAS WITH BACON AND CREAMY TARRAGON-GARLIC VINAIGRETTE

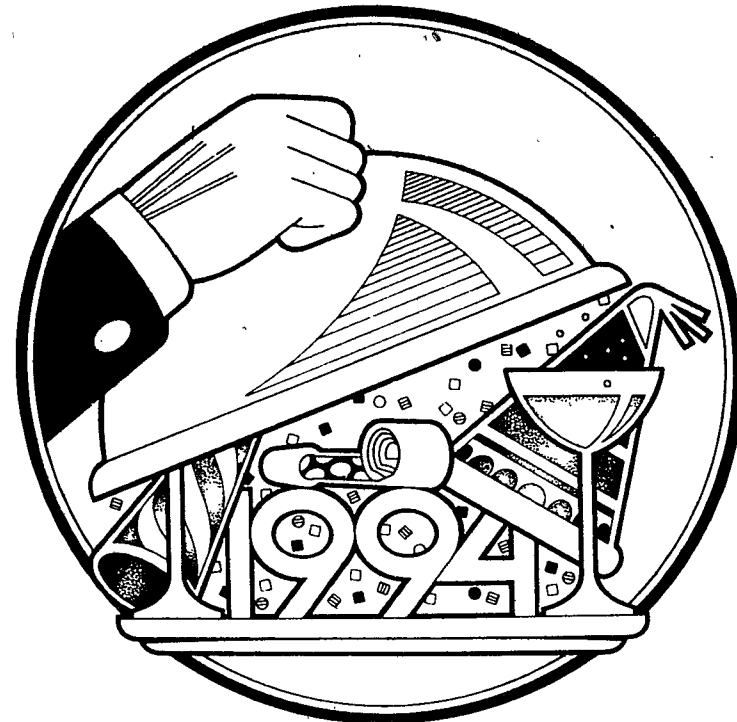

Serves 6 to 8

This dish is a cool, light, refreshing way to use peas when they are at their peak and we have so many leftovers. It's not necessary to use an exact weight or measure — just take what you have and add a good vinaigrette, garlic, herbs and bacon. You'll love it.

Vinaigrette

3/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup white wine vinegar
4 garlic cloves, finely chopped
1 teaspoon dried tarragon, crushed, or
1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh tarragon
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper

4 cups cooked or canned black-eyed peas
8 slices bacon, crisply fried and crumbled
1 teaspoon dried thyme or 1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh thyme

Salt
Freshly ground black pepper

To make the vinaigrette, whisk the olive oil, vinegar, garlic and tarragon together. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

In a large bowl, toss together the peas, bacon and thyme with the vinaigrette. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve chilled or at room temperature.

The cabbage recipe comes courtesy of former Diamond-head resident and cookbook author Terry Thompson. It appears in Cajun-Creole Cooking HP Books, $14.95.

browned, about 10 minutes. Add onion; cook until slightly wilted and transparent, about 5 minutes.

Drain cabbage, reserving 1 cup cooking liquid. Add cabbage to ham mixture; add 1/4 cup reserved cooking liquid. Season with cayenne, black pepper and salt. Reduce heat. Cover and simmer 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Add more reserved cooking liquid as necessary to prevent sticking.

Cabbage should be fairly dry when served. Serve hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

The Bob Harmon Forecast

NFL Forecast for Friday, Sunday and Monday Dec. 31 and Jan. 2-3

Minnesota, 21—Washington, 13 (Friday) The Vikings are 0-7 against the Redskins since 1980, including a 15-13 loss in the '92 regular season and a 24-7 thrashing in the NFC playoffs. Washington isn't up to continuing the streak.

Buffalo, 26—Indianapolis, 16 (Sunday) When the Bills and Colts played six weeks ago, Buffalo scored 16 points in a six-minute span of the second quarter on the way to a 23-9 win. The Bills must win in a city where they lost in '92.

Chicago, 17—L.A. Rams, 14 The last time these teams met, in '90, the playoff-bound Bears blew the Rams away 38-9. But it's Chicago's defense that will win this one, even though L.A. tends to beat the Bears at home.

Dallas, 28—N.Y. Giants, 24 In November, Emmitt Smith ran for 117 yards and two TD's and the Cowboys' defense beat up on Phil Simms as Dallas easily dispatched the Giants, 31-9. This will be big D's fourth straight over N.Y.

Green Bay, 19—Detroit, 15 This game will go the same way the first one did a month and a half ago, when Green Bay won a closely fought contest 26-17 with a late interception. The Pack is better on offense and defense.

*Houston, 27—N.Y. Jets, 12 The Jets are in the wrong place at the wrong time. If they'd met the Oilers in midseason, when both teams looked like they were just warming up, it might've been close, but Houston is too hot.

*Kansas City, 24—Seattle, 17 A month ago in the Kingdome, the Chiefs, led by three Marcus Allen TD's, overcame the Seahawks' 365 yards of offense to win 31-16. With D.C. ready for the playoffs, this isn't a likely upset.

*L.A. Raiders, 22—Denver, 20 The first Raiders-Broncos game didn't start until the fourth quarter, when they combined for 27 points and L.A. won it on Jeff Jaeger's 53-yard field goal. It'll be just as close in L.A.

Miami, 30—New England, 14 Speaking of fourth-quarter rallies: The Patriots led the Dolphins 6-3 six weeks ago before Steve DeBerg and Miami came alive, winning 17-13. The Dolphins need their 10th straight win over N.E.

*New Orleans, 20—Cincinnati, 10 If the Saints' defense doesn't dominate the Bengals' offense as it should, this could be closer than expected, because N.O. can sink to any bad team's level. They haven't played in three years.

Phoenix, 23—Atlanta, 21 This may be a super game, between one of the league's most underrated teams (the Cardinals) and one of its most exciting but unpredictable (the Falcons). In '92 Atlanta won 20-17 on a late FG.

*Pittsburgh, 24—Cleveland, 18 For four straight years, Cleveland has won the first Browns-Steelers game and Pittsburgh has won the second. The Browns won earlier this year, 28-23, and in Pittsburgh the pattern should hold.

San Diego, 17—Tampa Bay, 9 There isn't much left to get excited about for the Chargers, but they don't want to lose the easy ones, and they've never lost to the Buccaneers. Last year S.D. had five sacks in a 29-14 win.

*San Francisco, 31—Philadelphia, 13 (Monday) Who can stop the 49ers' offensive onslaught? Certainly not the Eagles, whose defense isn't exactly the pride of the NFL — and certainly not in S.F., where the 49ers would like to be playoff hosts.

Rocks repeat in Harrison Cen. tourney

St. Stanislaus claimed the Harrison Central tournament trophy for the second consecutive year Tuesday night in Lyman.

The Rocks advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Gulfport 4-0, Biloxi 4-1 on Monday and Jackson-Murrah 5-0 on Tuesday.

In the semi-final contest, the Rocks gained momentum with a dramatic goal by sophomore Casey Heitzmann in the final five minutes.

SSC Coach Timmy Burns called the contest "an even game until the final goal."

Sophomore Brad Cannon scored the first goal for the Rocks in the beginning of the second half to take a 1-0 lead. The Red Rebels tied the game with 15 minutes remaining.

"Keeper Shawn Morel had a solid game, with at least seven saves," noted Burns. Senior Charles Oliver set up Heitzmann's final goal for the win.

In the Tuesday night finale the Rocks faced the undefeated Pearl High School Pirates. The Rock-a-chaws scored two goals in the first seven minutes of the game, with Brad Cannon scoring on a penalty kick and Charles Oliver on a breakaway.

"This set the tone for the game," said Burns. "I felt that we owned Pearl after the second goal. We were tired, but we knew we were a better team."

The game was won in the mid-field by Drew Scaffide, Frank Kerbl, Brad Cannon and Casey Heitzmann.

Cannon scored on another penalty kick to make the score 3-0 with 10 minutes left in the half. Pearl came back and scored two goals in the remaining minutes, closing the half at 3-2.

The defense held Pearl in the second half to no goals, with strong defensive plays by Bobby Williams, Brooks Quinlan, Leo Laurant and Neil Heitzmann.

Scott Pepperman assisted Cannon on his final goal to give him a hat trick, said Burns.

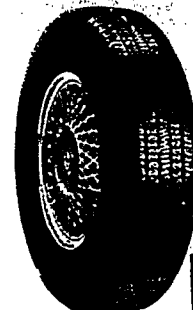

The Rocks, now 14-4-1 (5-0 District), face Long Beach at Rock-a-chaw stadium Thursday, January 6.

1993

Events that shaped the year at NASA, Stennis Space Center

For NASA and the John C. Stennis Space Center, 1993 was a challenging year as evidenced through a look at the following events that shaped both the agency and the center.

From Shuttle Missions to the Space Station . . .

Seven ambitious and successful Space Shuttle missions highlighted the year's events. For the first flight, a crew aboard Endeavour deployed TDRS-6, a tracking and data relay satellite.

Aboard Discovery in early April was the Atmospheric Laboratory for Applications and Science (ATLAS-2), the second in a series of missions to study the sun's energy output and Earth's middle atmosphere chemical makeup and how these factors affect levels of ozone.

Late April's mission featured a wide range of experiments in the microgravity environment of space conducted primarily for Germany. With the completion of this flight, the total flight time of all shuttle orbiters since the maiden voyage amounted to more than 365 days.

Other missions included retrieving the EURECA satellite and the first flight of the commercial spacelab facility Spacehab; deploying the ORFEUS-SPAS ultraviolet explorer; conducting a series of experiments to gain more knowledge about how humans adapt to the weightless environment of space; and the servicing of the Hubble Space Telescope, one of the most ambitious shuttle missions ever.

The Compton Gamma Ray Observatory, Voyagers 1 and 2, the Hubble Space Telescope, the ROSAT satellite and ATLAS-1 all provided invaluable information about our planet, our solar system and beyond.

President Bill Clinton called for a redesign of the space station and, after receiving three options from the redesign team in early June, selected a new design which includes Russian participation.

As part of the president's initiative to save money on the space station, NASA Administrator Daniel Goldin announced in August that Johnson Space Center would act as host center for the space station program. Boeing Defense and Space Group was named prime contractor.

Vice President Al Gore signed three landmark agreements with Russian Prime Minister Victor Chernomyrdin. The agreements covered cooperation in space, aeronautics and science, including Russian collaboration on the space station.

Achievements, Changes Occur at SSC . . .

Stennis Space Center experienced its own share of excitement and achievements, as well as many notable changes during 1993.

NASA at Stennis Space Center underwent a reorganization "to sharpen our organization, to meet the challenges of our current efforts and to provide for future development," SSC director Roy Estess explained.

The reorganization called for consolidation of several offices resulting in three new directorates: Projects and Technology Applications, Test and Engineering, and Management Operations.

Space Shuttle Main Engine Testing, Research and Development . . .

Stennis Space Center's Space Shuttle Main Engine Test program continued at a diligent pace in 1993. Earlier this month, a milestone was set when the SSME test program surpassed 600,000 seconds in total testing time, the equivalent of 392 Space Shuttle launches.

Between Jan. 1 and Dec. 15, Rocketdyne personnel successfully conducted 86 tests for a total of 37,646 seconds.

As part of Pratt & Whitney's Alternate Turbopump Program, testing continued on the company's high-pressure oxidizer turbopump. Pratt & Whitney also designed and then began testing new bearings for the turbopump made of a ceramic material, designed to have improved wear characteristics.

Construction Completed . . .

Construction of SSC's Seal Configuration Test Facility was completed in September. The facility consists of two test cells used to house Seal Configuration Testers, giving engineers the chance to evaluate the performance of oxygen seals in an oxygen environment at pressures up to 10,000 psi.

Another important benefit the facility offers is increased safety and reliability in oxygen systems throughout the agency, as advances in rocket propulsion require higher operating pressures.

Commercial Testing Activities . . .

Recently, a successful series of test firings performed on 13 development hybrid rocket motors was completed, signaling both the first firing of such a motor at SSC and the first use of the center's state-of-the-art Component Test Facility.

Testing was conducted for the American Rocket Co., California, a firm that specializes in the commercialization of low-cost hybrid rocket propulsion. The 1,000-pound (4,448-newton) thrust motors were test fired to determine how quickly the fuel was expended under a variety of operating conditions.

The center's Diagnostic Testbed Facility underwent modifications this year to handle testing of a small-scale liquid hydrogen turbopump. Twenty-three tests totaling more than 3,000 seconds were performed on the pump to validate the use of foil bearing technology for AiResearch in Torrance, Calif.

NASP Facility Dedicated . . .

On Aug. 11, NASA Headquarters and Stennis

Space Center personnel, U.S. Sen. Trent Lott and U.S. Department of Defense officials formally dedicated the center's High Heat Flux Facility.

This facility will perform high-temperature tests on materials in support of the National Aero-Space Plane Program, a joint NASA-Department of Defense effort.

As part of the National Aero-Space Plane program, a one-fortieth scale fuel tank recently arrived at SSC and is scheduled for installation and testing in early 1994.

Rocket Test Technology Agreement Signed . . .

Estess and U.S. Air Force Col. William Rutley, commandant of Arnold Engineering and Development Center (AEDC), Tullahoma, Tenn., signed an agreement to have the two centers work together on matters of mutual benefit in the rocket test technology arena. The agreement will facilitate cooperation between SSC and AEDC through the sharing of certain programs, personnel, facilities and resources.

ASRM Program . . .

But even though there were many positive testing activities in 1993, disappointment came in October when Congress voted to terminate the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor program due to budget constraints.

Shortly after the announcement, close-down operations began and will continue into early next year.

New projects selected for remote sensing commercial use

NASA announced the selection of 12 research projects to develop new private sector applications of space-based and airborne remote sensing technologies.

Named EOCAPE '93, for Earth Observations Commercialization Applications Program 1993, funding of the projects represents the third cycle in a continuing program aimed at increasing broader use of NASA-developed technology for gathering and analyzing valuable information about Earth and ocean resources through remote satellite or aircraft observations.

EOCAPE '93, sponsored by NASA's Office of Advanced Concepts and Technology in Washington, D.C., will fund over $2 million of research annually. Investigator teams are required to provide substantial co-funding of proposed research as a contribution to the project.

Projects funded under EOCAPE '93 will identify and research new commercial products and services that might be developed from use of existing technology and explore ways of improving and expanding the uses of remote sensing by commercial ventures.

The projects will be managed for the agency's Office of Advanced Concepts and Technology by the Commercial Remote Sensing Program Office at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center.

The 12 projects selected for negotiation are expected to lead to one-year funding contracts, with options to extend funding up to two additional years. The EOCAPE '93 projects are:

— Commercial Serviced Pro- ducts Derived from Satellite Remote Sensing, proposed by investigators affiliated with Gulf Weather Corp., Stennis Space Center, Miss.;

— Responsive Multi-Source Information Services for Hydrocarbon Industry Support, proposed by investigators affiliated with Boeing Defense and Space Group, Missile and Space Division, Seattle, Wash.;

— Compact Infrared Laser Multi-Gas Sensor, proposed by investigators affiliated with Micror Inc., Acton, Mass.;

— Orthorectified High Resolution Multispectral Imagery for Application to Change Detection and Analysis, proposed by investigators affiliated with Positive Systems Inc. in Kalispell, Mont., San Diego State University in San Diego, Calif., and Trifid Corp. in St. Louis, Mo.;

— Flood Watch, proposed by investigators affiliated with Earth Satellite Corp., Rockville, Md.;

Because of the work done by researchers, including NASA's only archaeologist Dr. Tom Sever, seven Central American governments committed to preserve and protect one of the planet's most precious commodities—the tropical rain forest in Central America.

Under the auspices of the Central American Commission for Environment and Development, the countries of Belize, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua and Panama pledged earlier this year a united effort in monitoring the environmental and cultural resources of the region.

Flooding Assistance

Following the disastrous flooding in the Midwest during the summer, SSC provided assistance to the Federal Emergency Management Agency's efforts to gather information about the damage. Stennis personnel flew the NASA Learjet, equipped with specialized sensors, over sections of the Midwest in July.

Russian Expedition

NASA and Russian scientists used the NASA/SSC Learjet on a historic U.S.-Russian expedition in August and September to survey sites in Russia's Kamchatka Peninsula.

The data acquired will be used to study the geologic evolution of the volcanoes, the impact of large volcanic eruptions on the atmosphere and its chemistry and to model thermal and dynamical aspects of volcanoes.

New Sensor Developed

SSC researchers completed the development of a new remote sensor this year. The Airborne Terrestrial Applications Sensor, a plane-mounted instrument, can "see" 15 separate wavelengths.

Technology Transfer

The transfer of NASA-developed technology to the public and private sectors continued to be a main focus of activity in 1993.

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards, Marshall Space Flight Center director Jack Lee and Estess met in Baton Rouge in June for the official signing of an agreement reaffirming NASA's commitment to the technology transfer program between the state of Louisiana and the space agency.

At the request of Mississippi Sen. Tommy Gollob, SSC hosted the Mississippi State Senate Economic Development Committee's "Technology for Economic Development Conference" Oct. 15.

In conjunction with this conference, Dr. Olon Ray, executive director of the Mississippi State Board of Community and Junior Colleges, Dr. Ted Alexander, president of Pearl River Community College, and SSC personnel dedicated the new NASA/Pearl River Community College Geographic Information System Industrial Training Center.

The facility, located in Building 1210, consists of eight computer workstations networked together that individuals can use to learn about Geographic Information System technology.

Education Programs and Visitor Activities

SSC personnel continued a strong outreach program, emphasizing education and visitor activities during the year.

A major event took place May 10 at Stennis. Twenty-five hundred students, parents, teachers and judges visited the center for the opening ceremony of the 44th International Science and Engineering Fair.

For the first time in 31 years, the bell rang at the old Gainesville community's schoolhouse in September. The occasion was the official dedication of the building for use by SSC's Teacher Resource Center. The renovated schoolhouse provides more space for educational workshops and activities.

The Tri-State Education Initiative (TSEI) Consortium supported a national video conference this summer called, "Distance Learning, Telemedicine, Total Quality Management and Telecommunications—A synergistic Approach to Improving Community Quality of Life—A National Forum."

In addition to the 750 participating from the tri-state area, conference sites were established in Washington, D.C., Atlanta, New York, Moscow, Tokyo and London.

In September, the TSEI Consortium began a year-long series of in-depth studies focusing on geography and its relationship to teachers' communities through global studies. One of the Geography Institute's featured activities was a visit by Gil Grosvenor, president and chairman of National Geographic.

In 1993, SSC's Teacher Resource Center held 33 workshops attended by 900 educators. The TRC provided educational materials to over 10,000 teachers.

SSC's Visitors Center hosted more than 115,000 people from all 50 states and around the world in 1993. Over 30,000 students participated in Visitors Center educational programs tailored to their age groups.

MILITARY MENTIONS

SGT THERIOT
Marine Sgt. Michael R. Theriot, son of Eli P. Theriot Jr. of Bay St. Louis, recently received the Navy Achievement Medal.

Theriot was cited for superior performance of duty. His attention to detail in the management of barracks rooms reduced squadron maintenance inspection discrepancies to an all time low, while over 365 Marines were transferred in and out of the barracks.

Theriot was simultaneously assigned to the Headquarters Squadron Color Guard and Burial Detail, where he participated in over 80 funerals and 25 color guard details during off-duty hours.

The award, presented during formal ceremonies, is official recognition for outstanding accomplishments, achievements and devotion to duty. Theriot is currently assigned with Headquarters and Support Battalion, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

PVT. CARR
Marine Pvt. Matthew B. Carr, a 1989 graduate of St. Stanislaus High School recently completed recruit training.

During the training cycle with Recruit Training Regiment, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C., recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine, and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

SEAMAN MOON
Navy Seaman Recruit William H. Moon, son of William W. Moon of Bay St. Louis, recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

Moon was among the last graduates of the 70-year-old San Diego boot camp. As a result of the 1993 Base Closure and Realignment process, the Navy is closing two of its three Recruit Training Centers, leaving the facility at Great Lakes, Ill. as its sole boot camp.

The recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further technical, academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupational fields.

He is a 1991 graduate of Bay Senior High School.
